Landscaping on council agenda

Inverness city council meets today at 5:30 p.m. in the council chamber at city hall, 212 W. Main St.,

Inverness. On today's agenda, City Manager Frank Di-Giovanni will report on the proposed Forest Drive landscaping project and approved signal and pedestrian improvements on State Road 44, and the exploration of costsaving conservation elements involving such things as decorative street lights and security lights, public buildings and heating and air conditioning systems.

Also, the Mosquito Control District Board of Citrus County has requested the authorization of aerial spraying of pesticides when deemed necessary.

To read the entire agenda, go to www. inverness-fl.gov.

Smoke wafts into county

Smoke from prescribed burns during the weekend at Potts Preserve and Northwest Sumter County may have wafted into portions of Citrus County, according to officials.

"If people are smelling smoke that could be from remnants of those burns, but the burns already took place over the weekend," said Don Ruth of the state Department of Forestry.

Ruth said the Southwest Florida Water Management District conducted a burn at Potts Preserve this past weekend and he was aware of another burn in the Half Moon area in the northwest corner of Sumter County.

Contrast and compare

Exercise helps prepare students for FCAT

Editor's note: Throughout the 2011-12 school year, the Chronicle staff is following the progress of several classrooms across the county during its series School Days, including Connie Kane's third-grade class at Pleasant Grove Elementary School in Inverness.

INVERNESS — As Connie Kane read from the book "Petite Rouge," with words like boudin and etouffeé and "She soak dat boudin wit' dat sauce, t'roo and t'roo," Ramius Diaz raised his hand.

"I'm really confused right now," he said.

Mrs. Kane's third-grade class at Pleasant Grove Elementary School, along with all the third-grade classes, are in the middle of learning about "compare and contrast" in literature, using various versions of the fairy tale "Little Red Riding Hood."

On Monday, they were hearing the Cajun version written by Mike Artell.

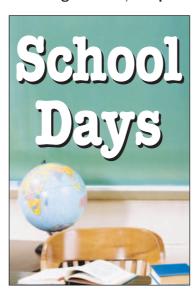

Last week, the students heard the original version as well as a Chinese version, "Lon Po Po." Later this week, they will read "Little Red Cowboy Hat," a "New Fangled Fairy Tale" version and even one from the wolf's point of view.

Ramius was confused because in Monday's story, it didn't sound like Mrs. Kane CRYSTAL RIVER — A Dunnellon man is facing seven counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon after cocking and pointing a rifle at several people in a Crystal River bar parking lot, according to the Citrus County Sheriff's Office.

Matthew James Neal, 19, of 4697 W. Wheatfield Lane, was arrested Nov. 29 after witnesses reportedly watched him go to a Jeep after a disturbance in the parking lot and grab a hunting rifle.

The security person at the business said Neal then cocked and began aiming the firearm at people. Everyone in the parking lot reportedly fled back into the bar and Neal and the driver of tors, several witnesses corroborated each others' statements about what transpired.

The altercation apparently began when one of the witnesses was reportedly bumped by Neal's brother while entering the bar. When the pair started to exit the bar soon after, the witnesses reportedly told Neal's brother to watch where he was going, sparking the verbal fight.

Investigators believe the rifle did not have bullets in it because of their absence at the scene after Neal reportedly cocked the gun. Neal was later arrested after a traffic stop. As of Monday afternoon, Neal is still being held at the jail. Bond is $49,000.

Plus, Little Red — "Petite Rouge" — was a duck and the wolf wasn't a wolf, but an alligator. What's up with

As Kane explained, compare and contrast is a state benchmark that will be covered on the FCAT testing this coming April.

"The students can be asked to compare and contrast characters, setting, events in passages that they will be given," Kane said. "Our third grade team enjoys finding projects that teach these different skills to the students. These lessons make it more interesting and help to build the student's schema (conceptual framework), which in turn, helps them with their overall reading comprehension."

However, on Monday, Mrs. Kane's students weren't concerned about that. They were having too much fun enjoying their teacher's attempt at speaking with a Cajun accent and learning about Ol' Claude, disguised as Grand-mére, who got fooled into thinking the boudin (Louisiana sausage) doused with hot sauce he ate was really "Petite Rouge" (Little Red).

After his big ol' mouth felt like he'd eaten fire, he learned his lesson and vowed never to eat little girls ever again.

Afterwards, the students compared and contrasted the stories they had heard thus far.

'In the original story, the wolf tried to eat a regular girl and in this one an alligator's trying to eat two ducks," said Tanner Stoess.

Earlier he had explained, "Comparing is seeing how things are alike and contrast is seeing the ways they are different.'

Gioia Cali said the stories are similar because "Little Red is tricked by an animal. "Little Red goes to Grandma's house and in 'Lon Po Po' the mom does," said James Mixon. "Also, in 'Little Red Riding Hood,' the wolf eats them but in 'Lon Po Po' the wolf tries to eat a ginko nut so he could live forever," Nikki Leahy said. "At the end he dies because his heart breaks into little pieces." After a time of discussion, the class got out their graphic organizer worksheet where they are keeping track of each story version, identifying the setting, characters, the problem and solution and the lesson — all fairy tales have

Senate president joining Gov. Scott on Israel trip

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Senate President Mike Haridopolos, one of the three most powerful people in state government, is joining Florida Gov. Rick Scott on a weeklong trade mission to Israel.

Haridopolos and his wife, Dr. Stephanie Haridopolos, are joining Scott and first lady Ann Scott on the trip to Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Democratic state Sen. Maria Sachs of Delray Beach and her husband are also joining the group of nearly 50 on the trip. They leave Thursday.

Florida law requires meetings between the governor and the Senate president to be open to the public if legislative action is to be discussed. A Scott spokesman said that press was invited on the trip but no media organizations decided to come along. But Brian Burgess added that both Haridopolos and Scott know the state's opengovernment laws.

"If there are times when the governor and Senate president are together they will be mindful of Florida's Sunshine laws," Burgess said.

Justices get breath testing machine case

Three defendants charged with drunken driving are asking the Florida Supreme Court to give them access to software for breath testing machines.

The outcome of the appeal filed Monday could affect other drunken driving cases across the state, as well as all out-of-state manufacturers doing business in Florida.

The defendants from Seminole County are appealing a 5th District Court of Appeal ruling. The Daytona Beach court quashed a lower court order that required Kentucky-based CMI Inc. to turn over software for its Intoxilyzer 8000. The defendants hope to show the only breath tester certified in Florida is inaccurate.

Voting rules to change for 2012

CHRIS VAN ORMER Staff Writer

If you haven't checked your voter status, now would be a good time to do so, because rules have changed.

"If voters have moved, changed their name or had a life event that has changed their signature since the last election, they need to update this information with the elections office," said Susan Gill, Citrus County Supervisor of Elections.

Gill's office sent out a mass mailing to voters, but will send new cards in June when changed redistricting numbers will be known so voters will know where to vote. A new law also affects voters.

eight, requires some voters who have moved to cast provisional ballots, tightens the time for thirdparty groups to submit voter registration forms and reduces the time that signatures on citizen-led ballot initiatives are valid.

The purpose of the law according to its sponsor, state Rep. Dennis Baxley, R-Ocala, is to ensure transparency in the voting process.

Florida is among about 30 states to enact or attempt to enact such a law, according to five Florida Democrat members of the U.S. House of Representatives, who are among 39 House members seeking an investigation into the new voting laws.

Gov. Rick Scott signed the 158-In May, the Florida Legislature page bill into law May 19. Here's passed House Bill 1355. It reduces what it does, according to the webthe days of early voting from 14 to site of the supervisor of elections:

■ Requires voters who move into Citrus County from another Florida county and change their address at the polls on Election Day to vote a provisional ballot.

■ Requires third-party voter registration organizations to register each agent who will register a person to vote with the Division of Elections before engaging in any voter registration activities. It must submit registrations to the elections office within 48 hours.

Grits the old-fashioned way? Local man has got it covered

NANCY KENNEDY Staff Writer

INVERNESS — Here's a tongue twister for you: Grist grinders grind grits.

And at the Inverness Farmer's Market, regular vendor and grits grinder John Prichett can be heard revving up his 1935 antique engine that he uses to grind corn into grits and corn meal.

"This is a stone burr mill, made from granite," he said Saturday from his spot at the market in the parking lot of Inverness city hall.

The market takes place from 8 a.m. to noon on first and third Saturdays. "The benefit from stone grain," Prichett said. "It runs cool and doesn't hurt one is made in North Carolina. It's a grist mill."

The engine is a 1935 Leroy engine, made in Milwaukee.

"I've been in antique engine clubs and I've had about 15 of them," he said. "I sold all of them except this one. I used to Prichett can get about 40 pounds of grits or about 25 pounds of corn meal from a 50-pound bag of corn.

there was always somebody grinding corn with an old antique engine."

Now he does it.

The process is simple: He takes a 50-pound bag of burrs, it doesn't heat the corn, fills up the mill and revs up the engine. The corn falls in between the the grain. This particular stones, which grind the grain and empties into a drawer. Next, Pritchett dumps what's in the drawer into a screen sifter. What comes out is grits.

For corn meal, he just moves the stones closer together for a finer grind.

"I don't really know the secret to making good go to engine shows, and corn bread, but I like it," he said. "In Virginia they make spoon bread instead of corn bread. It's like a soufflé — you eat it with a spoon. It's a lot of trouble, but it's good."

He said the No. 1 question he gets is from Northerners asking how to cook grits. He includes a howto on each bag, which he sells for $1.50.

"I get 50-pound bags of corn," he said. "I can get about 40 pounds of grits out of a bag. I get about 25 pounds of corn meal because that's a finer grind. Some people like course ground, but that takes forever to cook.'

A bag of corn costs $15, he said.

"The cost has gone up because they're making ethanol out of it now," he said. "I don't like that. There are people in the world that are starving, and they're taking corn and making ethanol and putting it in their cars."

Still, Pritchett said he enjoys grinding grits for people, and he especially enjoys eating them.

'I had some this morning for breakfast," he said. "I had grits, sausage and eggs. The sausage isn't too good for you, but the grits are."

He added that grits by themselves aren't too tasty. They need butter. Or maybe a load of grated cheddar cheese.

'Shrimp and grits is the going thing now," he said. "These grits, I don't take the germ out of them. The big mills take that out and sell the corn oil. I grind the corn and you get the whole thing.

Scientists find monster black holes For the RECORD

Biggest discovery yet

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL — Scientists have found the biggest black holes known to exist — each one 10 billion times the size of our sun.

A team led by astronomers at the University of California, Berkeley, discovered the two gigantic black holes in clusters of elliptical galaxies more than 300 million light years away. That's relatively close on the galactic scale.

"They are monstrous," Berkeley astrophysicist Chung-Pei Ma told reporters. "We did not expect to find such massive black holes because they are more massive than indicated by their galaxy properties. They're kind of extraordinary.'

The previous black hole recordholder is as large as 6 billion suns.

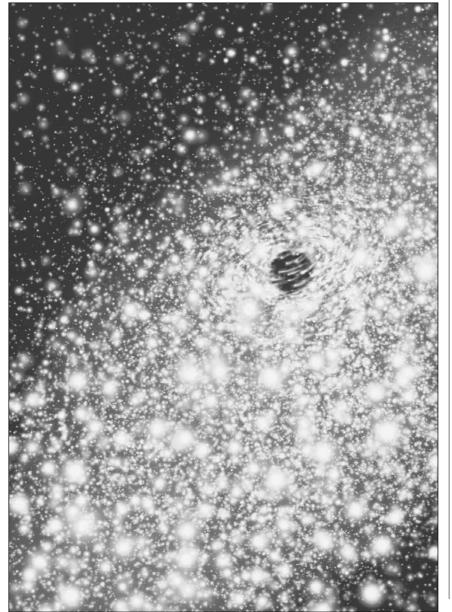

In research released Monday by the journal Nature, the scientists suggest these black holes may be the leftovers of quasars that crammed the early universe. They are similar in mass to young quasars, they said, and have been well hidden until now.

The scientists used ground-based telescopes as well as the Hubble Space Telescope and Texas supercomputers, observing stars near the black holes and measuring the stellar velocities to uncover these vast, invisible regions

Black holes are objects so dense that nothing, not even light, can escape. Some are formed by the collapse of a super-size star. It's uncertain how these two newly discovered whoppers originated, said Nicholas McConnell, a Berkeley graduate student who is the study's lead author. To be so massive now means they must have grown considerably since their formation, he said.

Most, if not all galaxies are believed to have black holes at their center. The bigger the galaxy, it seems, the bigger the black hole.

Center in April of this year that showed Florida taxpayers saved more than $160 million annually by employing prevention services like New Beginnings, aimed at helping troubled youth stay out of the state juvenile justice system. It serves annually around 15,000 troubled young people between the ages of 10 and 17.

Andy Coble, who is vice services for the organization, said in light of the emphasis on prevention, parents are encouraged to use a respite service they offer.

Coble said parents needing a few days break from a difficult relationship with a teen child can also use their services without fear that the state would involved.

He said the kids would be in a safe environment and would be offered counseling existing at home.

Gov. goes slowly on pension changes

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Gov. Rick Scott won't be pushing any changes to the state's massive $100 billion plus pension plan in the coming year.

Scott is expected to release his budget plans for 2012 on Wednesday.

Earlier this year, Scott pushed for extensive changes to the state pension plan that covers teachers and other public employees. But while legislators embraced some changes, they did not go as far as the Republican governor wanted. Scott wanted public employees to contribute five percent of their salary to cover pension costs. Legislators settled for a three percent contribution that unions are challenging in the courts.

Emails obtained by The Associated Press show that Scott still wants changes. But the governor and his staff agreed to wait until 2013.

Student leaders want end to hazing

TALLAHASSEE — Student government leaders at Florida A&M University asked students to join them in pledging to end hazing at the school after a marching band member died last month.

The group held a rally Monday evening at Gaither Gymnasium. Students were asked to sign an anti-hazing agreement. Student leaders hoped this was the first step to eradicating longstanding violent initiations at FAMU. In recent years, members of the school's band have been seriously injured. —From wire reports

World War II Navy veteran Clarence Pfundheller is reflected in the Adair County Veterans Memorial, featuring his name, in Greenfield, Iowa. Now 91, Pfundheller will be returning to Pearl Harbor Wednesday for the 70th anniversary ceremony honoring those lost in the Dec. 7, salesman and became an elementary school custodian. He now lives in Greenfield, just 12 miles from Bridgewater, the town where he was raised.

Many veterans didn't talk much about their experiences after World War II, and Pfundheller's own children didn't hear what he went through until he began sharing his stories schools and libraries.

"People in the Midwest

where I lived — why, you just are went back, got your job and went to work and nobody asked anything," he said.

Today, efforts are under like his are handed down to younger generations.

Pfundheller and four other World War II veterans are traveling to Hawaii with 10 students from the College of the Ozarks, a Christian school in Branson, Mo. After travel to Japan to visit Okinawa, where the U.S. and Japan fought a brutal battle in the last few months of the war, and Hiroshima, where the U.S. dropped the first atomic bomb.

Heather Isringhausen, a 21-year-old senior who will be one of Pfundheller's two like I saw on Dec. 7 student escorts, said she bunch of blood — it just wanted to join the trip in part because she's never been able to get her grandfather to tell her about his experiences serving in World War II.

She wants to know what the veterans were thinking at the time, and what life was like in the 1940s.

Food, Door Prizes,

50 guests.

"If most of the veterans anything like grandpa, they probably haven't talked much about Isringhausen said. "Once they're gone, all we'll way to make sure stories have left are history books and movies and different tales that people have been told and written down.'

Guy Piper, who was brushing his teeth in his barracks on Ford Island when the attack began, said he was honored to go on the Hawaii, the group will trip. He said programs like this make "us older people feel good."

The sailor who served in World War II and the Korean War said he would share with the students his hope that younger generations won't have war.

'When you see young men stays with you. You can't get rid of it. That's what war is about. Just plain hell," he said. "I'd like people to stop and think about staying away from wars."

■ PORTLAND, Ore. — Project Helping Hands (PHH) is recruiting volunteers to join medical and health education teams serving economically disadvantaged people in Bolivia, Haiti, Kenya, Liberia, the Philippines, Sudan and Uganda. The following trips are open for application:

- 1. Kampala, Uganda, January 2012.
- 2. Haiti, February 2012. 3. Bolivia Highlands, "Uyuni
- Salt Flats" March 2012.
- Liberia, April 2012. 5. Ilagan, Philippines, May 2012.

To apply for a trip and learn more about Project Helping Hands, visit the website www.projecthelpinghands.org.

Team members are primarily nurses, doctors, physicians and other care providers, but anyone older than 18 can apply to join a team. Non-medical volunteers help with setting up clinics and managing lines, running between providers and the pharmacy, handing out glasses, helping with health education, playing with kids and taking photos.

Project Helping Hands, a non-affiliated nonprofit organization, sends volunteer medical and health education teams to developing nations to provide medical clinics and health education for those who lack access to care.

■ The Alzheimer's Family Organization is expanding its volunteer program. We have a new coordinator and there are new and exciting opportunities available for dedicated people who would like to donate their time to help a local, nonprofit organization. The group serves the central Florida area, including Citrus, Hernando, upper Hillsborough. Lake, Pasco, upper Pinellas and Sumter counties. Monies raised remain locally and benefit individuals with Alzheimer's disease and their families in Central Florida.

The AFO provides needed programs and services, including respite care assistance, Wanderer's ID Program, support groups and educational events. Call the office at (727) 848-8888 or (888) 496-8004.

■ CRYSTAL RIVER — The latest ER Extra development at Seven Rivers Regional Medical Center is the addition of a texting option for emergency room wait times. For those not requiring medical emergency care, the ER Extra texting option is designed to help decision-making in seeking care extra fast and extra easy.

Text your ZIP code to ER-TIME (378463) to receive the current wait time at SRRMC. You can also check ER Extra wait times online at www.srrmc.com or from any smartphone; iPhone users can download the ER Extra app from iTunes.

"Texting for wait times improves the decision making process and helps alleviate any additional stress someone might have during a time of need," said Dorothy Pernu, director of marketing and communication at Seven Rivers Regional. "But this option is only recommended for those not requiring immediate care. If you think you may have a medical emergency, call 911.'

ER wait times reflect the average wait time of the previous hour of the patients that were triaged during that time.

■ Free diabetes education classes, 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Fridays, at the Citrus Diabetes Treatment Center, 7493 W. Gulf-to-Lake Highway, Crystal River, given by Patti Keller, R.N., BSN, certified diabetes educator. Limited seating available; call (352) 564-0444. ■ Catholic Charities DOSP has openings in its respite program that meets from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays at Our Lady of Grace Church in Beverly Hills. Call Marie Monahan at (800) 242-9012, ext 22.

The Most Important Factors In Treating Prostate Cancer ... Location, Location, Location

See Ya!

Robert Boissoneault Oncology Institute is the only cancer treatment center in Citrus County to offer the Calypso® System, GPS for the Body. The Calypso System provides a giant leap forward in our ongoing fight against cancer.

What Makes the Calypso System Different?

The prostate, like many organs in the body, is never in a state of complete rest but can move during radiation treatment. Three tiny Beacon® electromagnetic transponders provide positioning guidance to the clinician during therapy. Clinicians can use the motion data to monitor the prostate position to accurately target the cancer during radiation delivery.

Precise prostate targeting spares normal, healthy tissues from exposure to radiation allowing for a safer and more accurate treatment process

RBOI is the only radiation oncology facility in Citrus County to achieve accreditation by the American College of Radiology.

Associated Press Reports that all countries using the euro could get their credit ratings downgraded deflated a morning rally in the stock market Monday. The Dow Jones industrial average closed up 78 points, giving back much of a 167-point gain from

News reports in the afternoon said Standard & Poor's would put all nations that use the euro on "creditwatch negative," meaning there is a 50-50 chance of a downgrade in the coming months. S&P had warned of possible rating demotions for many of the countries. The inclusion on the list of Germany, Europe's strongest economy, was the biggest surprise. After the market closed,

S&P confirmed that it had placed 15 nations on notice for possible downgrades. Two countries that use the euro weren't affected: Cyprus already had that designation and Greece already has ratings low enough to suggest that it's likely to default soon anyway. Stocks rose in the morning after the leaders of France and Germany called for a new treaty to impose greater fiscal discipline on European countries. Yields Gendreau, government on Italian bonds receded sharply after the new government of Mario Monti introduced sweeping austerity measures over the weekend. That suggests traders believe Italy is less likely to default. "There's pent-up demand, and people will use any excuse to get back in, thinking there's been too much pessimism," Brian strategist with Cetera Financial Group. Despite strong signals about the U.S. economy, the market has been weighed down by negative headlines about the U.S. budget impasse, creditrating downgrades of the U.S. and other nations, and Europe's spreading crisis, Gendreau said.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 78.41 points, or 0.7 percent, to 12,097.83.

The gains were broad. All 10 industry groups in the Standard & Poor's 500 index rose. Financial stocks were among the biggest winners. Investors have feared that U.S. banks might be dragged down by their close connections to the unstable European financial system.

JPMorgan Chase & Co. jumped 3.7 percent, the most in the Dow. Bank of America was the secondbiggest gainer, 2.7 percent. Citigroup Inc. rose 5.9 percent, Morgan Stanley 6.8 percent.

The S&P 500 rose 12.8, or 1 percent, to 1,257.1. The Nasdaq rose 28.83, or 1.1 percent, to 2,655.76.

Investors are hoping that a summit of European leaders on Thursday and Friday will produce concrete measures to prevent a messy breakup of the euro currency, which investment is shared by 17 nations.

Treasury bills drop at weekly auction

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Interest rates on short-term Treasury bills fell in Monday's auction with rates on three-month bills matching a record low. The Treasury Department auctioned $29 billion in three-month bills at a discount rate of 0.005 percent, down from 0.03 percent last week. Another $27 billion in six-month bills was auctioned at a discount rate of 0.05 percent, down from 0.07 percent last week. The three-month rate matched a record low set on Nov. 7. Even with the small rise for the six-month bill, it remained close to its record low of 0.035 percent, also set on Nov. 7. The six-month rate was the lowest since it stood at 0.04 percent on Nov. The discount rates reflect that the bills sell for less $10,000 bill, the three-month price was $9,999.87 while a six-month bill sold for $9,997.47. That would equal an annualized rate of 0.005 percent for the three-month bills and 0.051 percent for the six-month bills. Separately, the Federal Reserve said Monday that the average yield for oneyear Treasury bills, a popular index for making changes in adjustable-rate mortgages, edged up to 0.13 than face value. For a percent last week from 0.12 percent the previous week.

Silent skies

I've talked to people in Homosassa and Crystal River and everybody's wondering, where are the birds? It's been at least three or four weeks and no birds (are) around. I feed them once a week and usually my feeders are empty in four or five days. Now they're not even half empty. I wonder what happened to all the birds. Does anybody know? It's quite a mystery.

Parking lot plea

I just want everybody to know I was in (a) shopping center Sunday afternoon (Nov. 27) at 3 o'clock, coming out of a store to get in my car, my friend and I. These two women in a red fourdoor car stopped us and said she had $100 to get her kid out from the hospital but it was $118 and wondered if we had $18. And I said, "I wish I had $18," and they drove off. I wish I'd have gotten their tag number. So when you come out of a store, be very, very careful of people like this. She didn't even look like she was able to drive, but I was unable to get her tag number. First time it's ever happened to me in Citrus County.

VOICES

In our not too distant past, a feeling of shame made people go into hiding after an adulterous relationship was exposed. Now they go on television to talk about the sleazy details. They either deny it (Herman Cain), admit it and say they've asked God for forgiveness (Newt Gingrich), or pay no political price at all (space limitations prevent me from listing the legion of politicians who fall into this last category.)

Ginger White was on TV last week. She's the Georgia woman who claims to have had a 13-year affair with Herman Cain. White says the alleged affair wasn't "sex for cash." Whew, let's be grateful for some sense of morality, however thin.

In a nation that channels Ado Annie's lament from the musical 'Oklahoma" ("I'm just a girl who cain't say no"), saying no to anything, including adultery, gets you pegged as a fundamentalist who is attempting to impose his How's our failure to impose anything working out for us?

If we maintain that adultery is wrong, shouldn't we have an authority for that judgment? Who decides such things? So the wife (or husband) and kids get upset. Isn't it all about one's personal choice and happiness?

For politicians, it goes wanted to ask former Senator Gary Hart after his alleged affair with Donna Rice nearly 25 years ago: "If we can't trust you to keep a promise freely made to your wife before God and witnesses, what standard should we use to judge your truthfulness when you make promises to the American

It's not a trick question, but one that goes to the core of an individual's values and character. What is marriage? Is it something for the convenience of the U.S. Post Office for orderly mail delivery, or is there a higherauthority behind it? For most people, marriage is a sacrament with "rules" firmly established by God and when followed these rules benefit married couples, their children and society. Among the main requirements of marriage is fidelity. "Forsaking all others" is the phrase contained in the Christian marriage vow. Divorce has become widely accepted (though not to the author of marriage) as a sometimes "necessary evil," but adultery remains for morality on others. most people what it has always been: a betrayal.

> It's not just a religious concept. Ask a person who is married but does not believe in God how he or she would feel about a cheating spouse and you most likely would get the same response you would receive from one who does believe in a higher power: anger and profound disappointment.

In The Washington Post's "Reliable Sources" column last week, Roxanne Roberts and Amy Argetsinger asked, "Is an affair still the kiss of death?" That they have to ask the question is another indicator of falling standards. Once, divorce was a political "kiss of death." Now we are debating whether adultery should carry a similar penalty. One shudders to think what might be next.

Ultimately, what voters must decide is this: Does a presidential candidate's personal flaws rise (or fall) to a level that inhibits his ability to do the job of president? Put another way, if you are about to have surgery, do you care if the doctor is a cad, or do you care more whether most of his patients are alive and well?

With the multiple challenges Americans face and with the choices presented to us, if the country is to be made well, voters may just have to sacrifice the ideal for the pragmatic.

Indiscriminant killing

Recently, there have been two incidents where law enforcement officers have shot family dogs. The first was a 14-year-old golden retriever killed by a St. Petersburg police officer and the second was a Jack Russell terrier shot to death by a Citrus County deputy. These shootings raise some concerns.

I spent 42 years in policing. I often encountered family dogs. My first act when dealing with a loose dog was to separate myself from the dog. The last thing I would ever think about is destroying an animal. In the Citrus case, the dog was on his own property and was displaying his basic instincts to protect his home and owners. Dogs can only react to their instincts. They cannot distinguish between an officer of the law or an intruder. We as humans have been given powers of reason and logic which the animal world does not have. It is for us to understand that the animals are only doing what their instincts tell them to do and adjust our actions.

In the past, dogs were work animals and protectors of the home. Today they provide many functions, including service dogs and various specialties to law enforcement and the medical world, as well as protectors. People today consider their pets as companions, friends and family members. Imagine, if you can, seeing your best friend shot down in his own front yard by a police officer for the crime of doing what is expected of him.

I would question the mental attitude of the officers. To feel the threat was so great that they choose the deadliest of their many weapons to address these animals is truly mystifying. Law enforcement agencies must realize that dogs have a much different place in modern society and indiscriminant killing of them is totally inhumane and unacceptable.

The firearm is provided to police for their protection when all other means fail. It can be used if they believe their life or another's is in imminent danger. I don't believe a 15-pound dog rises to that threat level.

Keep dogs quiet

\ to the Editor ====

I have read many funny and disturbing comments in Sound Off, but none as bizarre as the Nov. 18 submission about dogs barking to communicate. Is this person kidding? Dogs bark because they are lonely and ignored. It is pet owners like this who cause neighbors to pull their hair out. Dogs are pets, not instruments used to torture everyone else. If this person wants to own a dog, they have a responsibility to ensure it is not disturbing others by its barking.

No one should ever lose sleep or peace and quiet (day or night) due to inconsiderate and stupid owners of dogs. If they want to have dogs that bark at all hours, buy about 5 acres of land and let them bark all day and night. What makes this person think they have the right to disturb other people with dogs? What is this person thinking?

It should be a law that the owners of dogs must be at least as intelligent as the dog! When dogs have disturbed me, I communicate with the owner, the police and SPCA.

I have been a dog owner for the past 30 years, but harbor no illusions that they are more than pets and that I am responsible for their behavior. This person should concentrate more on being a good neighbor rather than making inane excuses to escape the responsibilities of dog ownership.

Karzai: Afghanistan needs more $$$

BONN, Germany -Afghanistan will need the financial support of other countries for at least another decade beyond the 2014 departure of foreign troops, Afghan President Hamid Karzai said Monday at an international conference.

But the conference on the future of Afghanistan in Bonn was overshadowed by a public display of bad blood between the United States and Pakistan, the two nations with the greatest stake and say in making Afghanistan safe and solvent.

Pakistan boycotted the meeting to protest an apparently errant U.S. air strike last month that killed 24 Pakistani soldiers along the rough border with Afghanistan. The strike furthered the perception in Pakistan that NATO and the U.S. are its true enemies, not the Taliban militants that operate on both sides of the border.

"It was unfortunate that they did not participate," U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton said.

Pakistan is seen as instrumental to ending the insurgency in Afghanistan because of its links to militant groups and its unwillingness, from the U.S. and NATO perspective, to drive insurgents from safe havens on its soil where they regroup and

But some of the optimism faded late in the day when Standard and Poor's threatened to cut its credit ratings on 15 eurozone countries, including the likes of Germany, France and Austria which But not everyone on Wall Street have been considered Europe's safest government debt issuers.

The announcement came only hours after Sarkozy and Merkel re-

While the Franco-German plan closer together, a tighter union would likely also result in heavier financial burdens for the region's stronger economies, which have already put up billions of euros to rescue Greece, Ireland and Portugal.

Russians protest vote

Russian opposition members chant anti-government slogans during a rally Monday in Moscow, Russia. Several thousand people have protested in Moscow against Prime Minister Vladimir Putin and his party, which won the largest share of a parliamentary election that observers said was rigged. Estimates of the number of protesters Monday night ranged from 5,000 to 10,000. They chanted "Russia without Putin."

Police quell demonstration accusing officials of election fraud

Associated Press

MOSCOW — Several thousand protesters took to the streets Monday night and accused Prime Minister Vladimir Putin's party of rigging this weekend's parliamentary election in which it won the largest share of the seats.

It was perhaps the biggest opposition rally in years and ended with police detaining about 300 activists. A group of several hundred marched toward the Central Elections Commission near the Kremlin, but were stopped by riot police and taken away in buses.

Estimates of the number of protesters ranged from 5,000 to 10,000. They chanted "Russia without Putin" and accused his United Russia party of stealing votes.

In St. Petersburg, police detained about 120 protesters.

United Russia won about 50 percent of Sunday's vote, a result that opposition politicians and election monitors said was inflated because of ballot-box stuffing and other vote fraud. It was a significant drop from the last election, when the party took 64 percent.

Pragmatically, the loss of seats in the State Duma appears to mean little because two of the three other parties winning seats have been reliable supporters of government legislation.

Nevertheless, it was a substantial symbolic blow to a party that had become virtually indistinguishable from the state itself.

The result has also energized the opposition and poses a humbling challenge to Putin, the country's dominant figure, in his drive to re- from local to central, were so obviturn to the presidency.

Putin, who became prime minister in 2008 because of presidential term limits, will run for a third term in March, and some opposition leaders saw the parliamentary election as a game-changer for what had been presumed to be his easy stroll back to the Kremlin. More than 400 Communist Party supporters also gathered Monday to express their indignation over the election, which some called the dirtiest in modern Russian history. The Communists finished second with about 20 percent of the vote.

"Even compared to the 2007 elections, violations by the authorities and the government bodies that actually control the work of all election organizations at all levels, ous and so brazen," said Yevgeny Dorovin, a member of the party's central committee.

Putin appeared subdued and glum even as he insisted at a Cabinet meeting Monday that the result 'gives United Russia the possibility to work calmly and smoothly."

Although the sharp decline for United Russia could lead Putin and the party to try to portray the election as genuinely democratic, the wide reports of violations have undermined that attempt at spin.

Boris Nemtsov, a prominent figure among Russia's beleaguered liberal opposition, declared that the vote spelled the end of Putin's "honeymoon" with the nation and predicted that his rule will soon "collapse like a house of cards."

Planet in life's sweet spot

Kepler provides confirmation

Associated Press

WASHINGTON newly discovered planet is eerily similar to Earth and is sitting outside our solar system in what seems to be the ideal place for life, except for one hitch. It's a bit too big.

The planet is smack in the middle of what astronomers call the Goldilocks zone, that hard to find place that's not too hot, not too cold, where water, which is essential for life, doesn't freeze or boil. And it has a shopping mall-like surface temperature of near 72 degrees, scientists say.

The planet's confirmation was announced Monday by NASA along with other discoveries by its Kepler telescope, which was launched on a planet-hunting mission in 2009.

That's the first planet confirmed in the habitable zone for Kepler, which had already found Earth-like rocky planets elsewhere. Twice before astronomers have announced a planet found in that zone, but neither have been as promising.

"This is a phenomenal discovery in the course of human history," Geoff Marcy of University of California, Berkeley, one of the pioneers of planet-hunting outside our solar system, said in an email. "This discovery shows that we Homo sapiens are straining our reach into the universe to find planets that remind us of home. We are almost there."

The new planet — named Kepler-22b — has key aspects it shares with Earth. It circles a star that could be the twin of our sun and at just about the same distance. The planet's year of 290 days is even close to ours. It likely has water and rock.

The only trouble is the planet's a bit big for life to exist on the surface. The planet is about 2.4 times the size of Earth. It could be more like the gas-and-liquid Neptune with only a rocky core and mostly ocean.

"It's so exciting to imagine the possibilities," said Natalie Batalha, the Kepler deputy science chief.

Floating on that "world completely covered in water" could be like being on an Earth ocean and "it's not beyond the realm of possibility that life could exist in such an ocean," Batalha said in a phone interview.

Kepler can't find life itself, just where the conditions might be right for it to thrive. And when astronomers look for life elsewhere they're talking about everything ranging from microbes to advanced intelligence.

Luck was the Heisman runner-up to Auburn's Cam Newton last year and passed up a chance to be the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft to return to Stanford for his junior season. From the mo-

Luck had another stellar season, passing for 3,170 yards with 35 touchdowns while leading the Cardinal to an 11-1 record and a second straight BCS bid. But the competition has been so fierce that it's been tough for Luck to hold onto his front-runner status.

DALLAS - Ron Santo always kept rooting for the causes dearest to him — for his Chicago Cubs to win the World Series, for doctors to find a cure for diabetes and for him to reach the Hall of Fame.

On Monday, Cooperstown finally came calling. The barrel-chested third baseman who clicked his heels in victory was elected to the Hall, overwhelmingly chosen by the Veterans Committee nearly a year to the day after he died hoping for this very honor. "It's really exciting because so many years that we had parties over to his house in spring training saying this is the year,

I'd tell him this is the year

you're going in," said Hall of Fame teammate Billy Williams, a member of the voting panel.

'The one thing, of course, is he's not here to enjoy it, but his family will. He long awaited this, and we're all happy. I know I'm happy, his family is happy, the fans of Chicago are happy," he said.

Santo was a nine-time All-Star, hit 342 home runs and won five Gold Gloves. He was a Cubs broadcaster for two decades, beloved by the home crowd for the way he eagerly cheered for his favorite team on the air, hollering "Yes! Yes!" or "All right!" after good plays and groaning "Oh, no!" or "It's bad" when things went wrong.

Shortly after the announcement, Santo's flag — white with blue pinstripes, plus his name and No. 10 — was flying from the center pole atop the scoreboard

Bruins win streak continues

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Gregory Campbell, Benoit Pouliot and Tyler Seguin scored, Tim Thomas stopped 45 shots, and the surging Boston Bruins kept rolling with a 3-1 win over the Pittsburgh Penguins on Monday night.

The Bruins improved to 14-0-1 in their last 15 games, their longest point streak since the club went 17 games without a loss in 1983. The defending Stanley Cup champions clamped down on the Eastern Conference-leading Penguins, holding star Sidney Crosby scoreless and dominating the game for long stretches.

Matt Cooke scored his sixth goal of the season for Pittsburgh, but the Penguins went 0-for-4 on the power play and squandered a pair of 5-on-3 opportunities.

The Bruins had no such issues. Seguin's power-play goal early in the third period gave Boston a 3-0 lead. and Thomas had little trouble making it hold up.

The Bruins hardly looked like the team that slumped out of the gate in October. They've righted themselves over the last month, roaring to the top of the Northeast Division lead.

Maple Leafs 4, Rangers 2

NEW YORK — Phil Kessel had two assists to add to his NHL-leading point total, and the Toronto Maple Leafs snapped the New York Rangers' five-game winning streak with a 4-2 victory.

The Maple Leafs scored twice in less than two minutes to take a 3-0 lead early in the second period, then gave both goals back in another quick burst later in the period. Jonas Gustavsson made 12 saves in the third to preserve the onegoal margin, repeatedly turning New York away on a power play

The Rangers had won seven straight at home. Their only two regulation losses at Madison Square Garden this season are to Toronto, which also won 4-2 in New York's home opener Oct. 27.

Cody Franson, Tim Connolly and Joffrey Lupul also had goals for the Leafs.

Mike Santorelli, Dmitry Kulikov and Sean Bergenheim also scored goals for Florida and Scott Clemmensen stopped 28 shots. Kulikov also had two assists and Brian Campbell had three assists.

Mike Knuble, Cody Eakin, Brooks Laich and Jason Chimera scored goals for the Capitals.

Michal Neuvirth made 25 saves, but struggled in his second start under new coach Dale Hunter.

The Capitals have lost five

The Panthers have a sevenpoint lead over the Capitals in the Southeast Division.

Senators 4, Lightning 2

OTTAWA - Nick Foligno scored 15:33 into the third period. Zack Smith added two goals, and the Ottawa Senators extended Tampa Bay's losing streak to four games with a 4-2 win over the Lightning.

Daniel Alfredsson scored his sixth goal — the 395th of his NHL career — at 8:58 to tie it at 2. The Ottawa captain also earned an assist when Foligno gave the Senators a 3-2 lead, coming out from behind the net to tuck the puck past goalie Dwayne Roloson.

Smith, who scored late in the second to tie it at 1, made it a two-goal lead when he scored his eighth goal at 16:19.

Craig Anderson, who stopped 30 shots, tied a career high with his third assist of the season on Alfredsson's goal.

NEW ORLEANS — Drew Brees makes setting records sound so simple.

"Every guy on our team knows that just get where you are supposed to be and we'll find the open guy and continue to move the ball down the field," Brees said.

The Saints' star quarterback did just that Sunday night, completing 26 of 36 passes for 342 yards and touchdowns to three different receivers in a 31-17 victory over the Detroit Lions.

The performance gave Brees 4,031 yards this season, making him the first quarterback in NFL history to eclipse the 4,000-yard mark in a season's first 12 games.

'We were able to spread the ball around and come up with some big plays," Brees said.

Brees' touchdown passes went for 67 yards to Robert Meachem, 20 yards to Lance Moore and 6 yards to Darren Sproles. He also connected eight times with tight end Jimmy Graham for 89 vards as the Saints (9-3) improved to 6 0 at home while taking a two-game lead over Atlanta in the NFC South.

"He's a surgeon out there and makes me look good," Graham said of Brees. "When your quarterback has confidence in you, it raises you to a new

During the Saints' three touchdown drives in the first half, Brees completed 12 straight passes for 216 yards.

Matthew Stafford passed for 408 yards and one touchdown for the Lions (7-5), who have lost five of their last seven, but remain in playoff contention.

The Lions hurt themselves with 11 penalties for 107 yards, including three offensive pass interference penalties and a personal foul on tight end Brandon Pettigrew for shoving an official who was trying to get between him and Saints safety Roman Harper after the whistle.

In fact, Griffin seemed to take the lead in the race over the last month of the season.

The quarterback called RG3 by Baylor fans leads the nation in passer rating (192.3), with 3,998 yards and 36 touchdowns. He has also run for 644 yards and nine touchdowns. And much like Luck, Griffin has led a longstruggling program to its greatest success in decades. Baylor is 9-3 this season, its first nine-win season since

The best showing a Baylor player has ever had in the Heisman voting was quarterback Don Trull's fourthplace finish in 1963.

Richardson has been the unquestioned offensive engine for No. 2 Alabama. He's fifth in the nation in rushing at 131.9 yards per game and tied for fifth in touchdowns with 23. Richardson and the Crimson Tide will meet Mathieu and LSU in the BCS championship game Jan. 9 in New Orleans.

Movies gear up for premiere at annual film festival in Utah

DAVID GERMAIN AP Movie Writer

LOS ANGELES — It'll be a busy shopping season at next month's Sundance Film Festival, whose star-studded premieres are up for grabs by potential theatrical distributors.

Some premieres usually enter the independent-film showcase with U.S. distribution already lined up. But festival director John Cooper said all the premieres that Sundance announced Monday will be looking for distributors.

"I don't think that's ever happened before," festival director John Cooper said. "It makes for a much more exciting buyer's market, I think. At least, lively.

Among Sundance's big-name premieres: Kirsten Dunst's wedding romp "Bachelorette," directed by Leslye Headland; Bruce Willis and Catherine Zeta-Jones' Las Vegas bookie caper "Lay the Favorite," from filmmaker Stephen Frears; Richard Gere and Susan Sarandon's Wall Street saga "Arbitrage," Niro in Rodrigo Cortes' paranormal Marsh's thriller "Red Lights"; and actor-di-rector Julie Delpy's "2 Days in New York," co-starring Chris Rock in a follow-up to her 2007 romance "2 Days in Paris.'

Sarandon also stars alongside Frank Langella in a second Sundance premiere, director Jake Schreier's geriatric comedy "Robot and Frank," which also features Liv Tyler and James Marsden.

Former "X-Files" partners David Duchovny and Gillian Anderson both have premieres playing Sundance. Duchovny and Vera Farmiga star in Christopher Neil's fatherson story "Goats," while Anderson directed by Nicholas Jarecki; is featured along with Clive Owen Sigourney Weaver and Robert De and Andrea Riseborough in James Irish terrorism

"Shadow Dancer."

Director Spike Lee, who came to Sundance with his 2009 rock musical "Passing Strange," returns with "Red Hook Summer," the story of an Atlanta boy spending the summer with his grandfather in Brooklyn.

Cooper said the film is a return to the same urban landscape Lee explored two decades ago in "Do the Right Thing," with the director reprising the role he played in that

"It's very back to his roots, very much in his old style. He's even playing his old character, Mookie," Cooper said. "This is the same neighborhood."

Overseen by Robert Redford's Sundance Institute, the festival runs Jan. 19-29 in Park City, Utah.

Sundance opens with four films that were announced last week among the festival's dramatic and documentary competitions. It closes with one of the premieres unveiled Monday, directors Brian Klugman and Lee Sternthal's literary plagiarism story "The Words," starring Bradley Cooper, Jeremy Irons, Dennis Quaid and Olivia

Martinez visits Fort Campbell soldiers

Associated Press

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. — "Dancing With The Stars" winner J.R. Martinez returned to Fort Campbell to visit soldiers where he was once stationed.

Martinez told the soldiers Sunday the values and lessons he learned in the Army helped him overcome adversity, the Leaf-Chronicle reported.

He said his life took an unexpected turn after he was burned in 2003 when his Humvee struck a land mine in Iraq. Since he could no longer be an infantry soldier, Martinez said he found a different way to serve as a motivational speaker.

said, "that when I go out there to speak, I'm speaking for every one of you guys, here and around the world.

"You can take that M-16 out of my hand and that camouflage uniform off of my body, but my weapons are my words and my uniform is my body. That's what I wear and day to be effective and to carry out my mission."

When Martinez "Dancing With the Stars," the military medical community at Fort Campbell said his real victory was dispelling perceptions about wounded warriors.

Martinez was burned over 40 percent of his body, but kept a positive attitude after he became a motivational speaker and an actor on ABC's now retired soap opera "All My Children."

He began his speech to soldiers with story about a sergeant who taught lessons with a little tough love and a lot of push-ups.

Martinez, whose smile overpowered his scars as he "Just know," Martinez spoke, challenged the soldiers to face their own scars, both physical and mental.

"You have what it takes to complete the mission," he told them. "You have it in you to overcome all the things you've been through."

He told them they have what it takes to make it in the Army, and encouraged them that's what I use every single improve their personal lives. dance competition.

Today's HOROSCOPE

Today's Birthday: The more education or facts you've collected in the past, the better off you'll be in coming months. The more you know, the more ways there will be Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Today's good aspects could offer you more ways than usual to further your ambitious interests. However, although the breaks may be plentiful, they'll be fleeting as well, so act immediately. Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — A positive attitude regarding your involvements with others will work wonders for you. With the right mindset, you'll be a bit bolder and will reach higher than usual.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — By consistently envisioning positive results for all your undertakings, there's a very good chance your hopes and expectations will be fulfilled as well. Try it and see for yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — Some important news might be coming your way. After studying it closely, you're likely to discover it's much bigger and far more valuable than you ever anticipated.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Something good could happen to you that would immediately ease a financial burden. A friend is likely to be the one who brings this about. Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Even if things have been a bit unimpressive for you lately, matters could suddenly, totally change. Whatever it is that occurs should please you immensely.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — Should your intuition start telling you something good is about to bloom, don't treat it lightly. Your instincts are on track and working quite Cancer (June 21-July 22) — In case you haven't realized it yet, you'll soon have proof just how valuable your friends are. One among them will help you achieve something that you haven't been able to do on your own. Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Obstacles that have previously been impeding your progress could suddenly be replaced with bridges or stepping stones, carrying you straight to your hopes and dreams.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — It won't be by accident that your hopes and plans begin working out far more successfully than they did previously. It'll be because your thinking is now much more practical and feasible. Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Someone born under the sign of Sagittarius could offer you some advice that should turn out to be extremely valuable. If you happen to have a pal who is an Archer, get together posthaste.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — The genuine show of interest and caring you have for others will evoke a warmer response from someone who's been frosty toward you. Make the most of the thaw.

Today in HISTORY=

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 6, the 340th day of 2011. There are 25 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight: On Dec. 6, 1921, the Anglo-Irish Treaty, which established the Irish Free State, was signed in London. (The treaty came into force one year later on this date.)

On this date:

In 1790, Congress moved to Philadelphia from New York. In 1884, Army engineers completed construction of the Washington Monument by setting an aluminum capstone atop the obelisk.

In 1907, the worst mining disaster in U.S. history occurred as 362 men and boys died in a coal mine explosion in Monongah, W.Va.

In 1947, Everglades National Park in Florida was dedicated by President Harry S. Truman.

In 1957, America's first attempt at putting a satellite into orbit failed as Vanguard TV3 rose about four feet off a Cape Canaveral launch pad before crashing down and exploding.

In 1960, nearly 9 million acres of Alaska was set aside as an Arctic National Wildlife Range by order of Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton.

In 1971, the original Auto-Train, which carried rail passengers and their motor vehicles from Lorton. Va., to Sanford, Fla., went into operation. (Although the privately owned line went out of business in 1981, Amtrak revived the service in 1983.)

Ten years ago: The House of Representatives, by a one-vote margin, gave President George W. Bush more power to negotiate global trade deals.

Five years ago: Searchers found the body of San Francisco resident James Kim in the Oregon mountains, two days after his wife and two daughters were rescued from their car (Kim had set out on foot to find help for his family).

One year ago: President Barack Obama announced a compromise with the GOP to extend Bush-era income tax cuts despite Democratic objections; the agreement included renewing unemployment benefits and reducing Social Security taxes for one year.

Today's Birthdays: Jazz musician Dave Brubeck is 91. Comedy performer David Ossman is 75. Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood is 66. Rock musician Peter Buck (R.E.M.) is 55. Actress Janine Turner is 49.

Thought for Today: "Americans have always been able to handle austerity and even adversity. Prosperity is what is doing us in." — James Reston, American journalist (born 1909, died this date in 1995).

Teens and sexting

Few kids sending racy photos via cellphone, online

LINDSEY TANNER AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — Teen sexting of nude photos online or via cellphone may be far less common than people think, new research suggests.

Only 1 percent of kids aged 10 to 17 have shared images of themselves or others that involve explicit nudity, a nationally representative study found. Roughly the same number said they'd shared suggestive but less graphic photos; while 7 percent said they'd received either type of picture.

The research focused on teens only — not people in their 20s, an age group included in some earlier studies which showed considerably higher sexting participation. The new study suggests texting of sexual photos among younger kids is rare.

The results are reassuring, showing that teen sexting isn't rampant, usually isn't malicious, and is generally not something parents should panic over, said lead author Kimberly Mitchell, a research assistant psychology professor at the University of New Hampshire.

Previous reports said as many as 1 in 5, or 20 percent, of an age group from 14 to 24 have participated in sexting. But some of those also used definitions of sexting that included racy text messages without photos, beach," authors of the new study

In the new study, researchers focused only on pictures, and asked more detailed questions about the kinds of racy photos kids are shar-

The researchers did a separate study on how police deal with teen sexting of photos. Contrary to some reports, that research suggests few kids are being prosecuted or forced to register as sex offenders for sexting. It estimates that nearly 4,000 teen sexting cases were reported to

The results suggest that police generally aren't overreacting to teen sexting, said Janis Wolak, lead author of the second study. Some cases that aren't clearly criminal are still worrisome and warrant intervention by parents or others, she said.

In the first study, researchers questioned 1,560 kids nationwide by phone, with parents' permission, between in August 2010 and January of this year. The second study is based on mailed questionnaires to nearly 3,000 police departments and follow-up phone interviews with investigating officers about sexting cases handled in 2008 and 2009.

The studies illustrate how sexting may include a wide range of teen behavior, and highlight an issue "about which we as a society have gotten pretty hysterical and probably blew out of proportion,' said Dr. Michael Rich, director of the Center on Media and Child Health at Children's Hospital

Exploring sexuality is normal behavior for teens and taking pictures of themselves and others is one way "just to find out what it is like," he said. "We've been doing side of a cave and the guys gath- com/LindseyTanner.

As a matter of fact, over the past two decades, there has been growing evidence of a cancer-protecting quality in aspirin. However, this is the first proper randomized controlled study to look at aspirin's effect on cancer risk, and as I have stated many times before. good, long-term, prospective randomized trials are needed to truly evaluate a have looked at aspirin's preventive benefits against heart attack and stroke eventually showed that participants in these trials also had a much lower risk of developing cancer. These results stem from a very large and well conducted trial. The study tracked nearly 1,000 patients from 43 centers in 16 different countries. Some of them were followed for more than 10 years. The trial concentrated on individuals with Lynch syndrome, which is a rare, inherited condition that raises the person's risk of developing colon cancer, as well as cancer of the skin, brain, upper urinary tract, uterus, liver and bile duct, small intestine, stomach, and ovary. The higher risk of cancer is caused by inherproblems with the ability of our DNA to repair itself when something goes wrong. Approximately half of all people with Lynch syndrome develop cancer, usually of the uterus or colon.

A total of 861 individuals took either two aspirins (600mg) daily for two years or a placebo. They started between 1999 and 2005. By 2007, there was no difference in cancer risk between the two groups. However, the researchers continued monitoring the patients. By 2010, they detected 34 new cases of colorectal cancer in the placebo group, compared to 19 in the aspirin group. Yes, the cancer incidence was less than half in the aspirin group compared to the placebo group.

of the frustration and dealing with the government, which sometimes can be punitive, and could have a detrimental effect on the doctor/patient relationship.

The idea of having information available to the patient immediately after a doctor's visit, at a moment's notice, and the ability of the ER doctor at 3:00 in the morning to pull all of the patient's records if they are having chest pains is once again a great concept, but if doctors are being pushed stated, it could be too fast, too aggressive, and doomed to failure.

There are also some silly rules in this proposal. The committee working on the electronic medical information rule is a core group of 15 specialists including primary care, surgeons, pediatricians and OB/GYN, to name a few, but for example does not include ear, nose and throat, which is my spe-

There is more traffic on the road this time of year and that can lead to more traffic incidents. Weekend concerts set for Saturday, Sunday

Special to the Chronicle

Nature Coast Community Band, under the direction of Cindy Hazzard, conductor and music director, continues its season at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, with an afternoon performance at Cornerstone Baptist Church in Inverness, and a 2:30 p.m. concert Sunday, Dec. 11, at First United Methodist Church in Homosassa.

The NCCB is an all-volunteer, 75musician symphonic concert band offering free concerts in Citrus County. The upcoming holiday concerts narrated by Doreen Morgan of Homosassa are titled "Tidings" and will feature symphonic favorites of Christmas and Hanukkah music.

In addition, the NCCB will feature its seven-member French horn section in the performance of a double concerto by Vivaldi. The program will also include the Grace Hand Bell Choir of Dunnellon, directed by Jean Wol-

Citrus County, all joining the band for a gala Christmas extravaganza.

The generosity of Cornerstone Baptist Church, 110 Highland Ave., Inverness, and the First United Methodist Church, 8831 W. Bradshaw St., Homosassa, in hosting the band performances enables NCCB to play for a total of 1,500 audience members on each concert weekend. Because the concerts are usually filled to capacity, early arrival is suggested. No tickets are necessary, but donations to support the NCCB are welcomed.

Visit the website at naturecoast fanger, and an octet of singers from communityband@earthlink.net.

Golfing for Daystar

Each year, Citrus Hills has a golf tournament for charity; this year the tournament proceeds went to Daystar. They collected 356 pounds of food, just in time for Daystar's Thanksgiving giveaway. Daystar offers enough food for a Thanksgiving dinner, including a turkey, to those in our county who may not be able to afford a large family dinner. This year, Daystar had 367 families that signed up for the free Thanksgiving Day fixings. Pictured, representing Citrus Hills Golf Tournament, are Robbie Lamparelli and Chris Morabito; John Mazzone from Daystar presented the women with an appreciation plaque from Daystar for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

In yesterday's deal, declarer had to lose the first trick, even though he had the ace and king in the suit.

Today's deal is a cousin. West leads the club jack against six no-trump. How should South plan the play? Did West have a more effective lead? After South opens two clubs, strong, artificial and forcing, I like North to respond two spades, showing five or more spades and eightplus points.

When this deal was played, though, North-South required responder to have either two of the top three honors or a six-card suit to give an immediate positive response. North caught up later by jumping to slam.

There seem to be 13 top tricks: two spades, three hearts, six dia-

The risk is a 4-1 diamond break. With this layout, if declarer takes the first trick, cashes his spade ace, plays a diamond to dummy's ace. and discards his low club on the spade king, he goes down. When East gets in with his diamond trick. he cashes the spade queen.

That would be the right play in seven no-trump, but not here. After taking the first trick and unblocking the spade ace, declarer should lead a low diamond and put in dummy's eight.

East takes the trick but has no riposte. South wins his return, crosses to dummy with a diamond, discards his low club on the spade king, and claims.

West defeats the contract if he leads his singleton diamond!

sons. The oldest and birthday card and phone mesyoungest are married, but the middle son (age 56) is not. He has his own house in our neighborhood and has had a younger man living with him for many years. We assume our son is gay, which is fine, but he has never admitted it.

The last time we saw our son was Father's Day. I sent him a birthday card in late July and asked why we haven't heard from him. I reassured him that we love in the paper. People then pick up him. I received no response. We then called and left phone messages twice. Still no word.

MAILBOX

When we do get together, our son is friendly, pleasant and charming. However, we are hurt and disappointed that he never invites us over, nor does he keep in touch other than a few times a year. Should we just accept this behavior or confront him in person by showing up at his home? -Pariahs, Not Parents Dear Parents: Oh, please don't do that. Some children are not comfortable having their parents over, and an unexpected visit would likely make matters worse.

If you believe the "younger man" is his partner, we hope you have welcomed both of them to your home. Your son might appreciate your acceptance of this man as part of his life, and it may make him more amenable to closer contact. But our main concern is whether your son is OK. Is the Tissue Hung Properly ear Annie: My husband it unusual not to have heard from and I have three adult him since June, despite your > sages? You might want to call once more and tell him you are worried about his wellbeing.

Dear Annie: I remember all of the letters about how to hang the toilet paper. I have a different question on the subject.

of Several friends just prop the roll of toilet paper on top of the cylinder instead of sticking the roller through the hole the roll with their hands and remove as much as they need. This might not be so bad, except that some people use the roll more than once on the same bathroom visit. Also, sometimes the toilet paper is dropped on the floor before being re-propped.Several times, I have made remarks regarding how unhealthy this habit may be, but they just laugh. Although they are otherwise hygienic, these people seem to have more upset stomachs than our other friends. When I visit their houses, I carry folded toilet paper in my purse in order to avoid using their well-handled rolls. They tease me for being germophobic, saying everyone washes their hands before leaving the bathroom. But what if they first brush the hair out of their eyes or touch their mouths before washing their contaminated hands? Is this healthy? — One Who Wants

Dear Tissue: This seems less an issue of hygiene than one of laziness. We are unaware of any studies that differentiate between using a propped-up roll of toilet paper versus one on a roller.

But we can tell you that the probability of having the roll fall on the floor (or in the toilet) makes it automatically less sanitary than using the roller. And by the way, it is highly unlikely that all those who use the bathroom wash their hands with soap and water before leaving.

Dear Annie: "Cool Grandma Doesn't Care" said her mother-inlaw is encouraging her adult daughter to share sleeping arrangements with her live-in boyfriend, even though Mom and Dad disapprove. You said Grandma can do what she wants in her own home.

What about the daughter and her boyfriend respecting her parents' wishes regardless of where they sleep?

The boyfriend should do the right thing. Better to make a possible future mother-in-law happy than Grandma. — El Segundo, Dear El: That would be exceptionally gracious, but Mom cannot force him to do it, and her daughter doesn't seem inclined to ask.

Take tea at Hospice House

The community is cordially invited to "Afternoon Tea" at Hospice House at 2 p.m. every Friday. "Afternoon Tea" offers an ideal way to greet your neighbors and friends and meet Hospice of Citrus County staff, who will provide information and tours of the facility. When a patient is appropriate for hospice care and has symptoms that can be addressed in an acute care setting, inpatient hospice care may be appropriate. In 2005, Hospice of Citrus County constructed Hospice House as a 16-bed inpatient facility on five acres west of County Road 491 in Lecanto. The Hospice House Team includes dedicated physicians, registered nurses, nursing assistants, chaplains, social workers and volunteers on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For information on Hospice House, call (352) 527-2020 or visit www.hospiceofcitruscounty.org.

'New Perspectives on Death'

Hospice of Citrus County Wings Grief Services Manager Jonathan Beard moderates "Beyond Kübler-Ross: New Perspectives on Death, Dying and Grief" presented Nov. 29 at the Hospice of Citrus County Wings Education Center, located at 8471 W. Periwinkle Lane, Suite A, Homosassa. How has professional understanding of dying and grief progressed and developed? Hospice of Citrus County offered this free three-hour program in coordination with Hospice Foundation of America. For additional information on professional educational opportunities open to the community, visit Hospice of Citrus County on the Web at www.hospiceofcitruscounty.org.

CITRUS COUNTY (FL) CHRONICLE WORDY GURDY® BY TRICKY RICKY KANE 2. Broad handbook or tour leader (1) 3. Rotate a plant with fronds (1) 4. More elevated purchaser (2) 5. Being bothered by a ski boot fastener (2)

Every answer is a rhyming pair of words (like FAT CAT and DOUBLE TROUBLE), and they will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word.
